Bacteria on the skin can cause many skin conditions. When the skin is compromised by any means such as a small scratch or bug bite, bacteria is able to infect the skin. A dog with allergies will scratch itself causing the skin to be compromised, which in turn will cause infection. Chlorhexidine is recommended when the pet has irritated redness, sores, hot spots, bald spots or flaky skin. If the skin has a fungal or foul odor,, mix 50/50 with Miconazole shampoo. For improved results first bath the pet with Benzoyl Peroxide shampoo allowing the Chlorhexidine to penetrated the skin more effectively.
